(54) Title: SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR MAINTAINING COMPONENTIZED CONTENT

(57) Abstract: A system and method is provided for creating component to save storage space, and to efficiently organize and maintain content. In one embodiment, a system is provided that is configured to manage the componentization (802) of content within entities that share common content. The system includes a content control (118) module configured to manage the editing (236) of content and their state, such as whether and when they were modified (606) or mutated (610). Alternatively, the system may include a repository (700) configured to manage the indexing (702) and searching of component (704).
