

ABSTRACT

Provided is a method for manufacturing a resonator, which is capable of effectively addressing the variation in resistivity for each wafer. The method for manufacturing a resonator includes the step of forming a Si oxide film at the surface of a degenerated Si wafer, and the Si oxide film has a thickness set in accordance with the doping amount of impurity in the Si wafer.