

ABSTRACT

An object of the present invention is to provide a compound that has a specific chemical structure having an activation effect on SIRT6 and is useful as an active component for preventing and treating inflammatory diseases. The present invention relates to a compound represented by Formula (1) or a pharmaceutically acceptable salt thereof.

(Each symbol in Formula (1) has the same definition as that described in the specification.)