

METHOD AND DEVICE FOR TRANSFER OF POLYRIZING PATTENS

Abstract

A polarisation mask for producing light of locally different polarisation from unpolarized or uniformly polarized light. On the light output side discrete areas with different polarisation directions are present, which are either static or switchable. The mask is useful e.g. for the transfer of polarization pattern onto a PPN layer.

Fig 1 to 4

G00002

162162