

Production Method and Culture Device of Cell Tissue

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The production method includes: filling a soluble liquid holding material that cures under a predetermined condition between a first substrate and a second substrate; curing the filled holding material; and separating at least one cell tissue from at least 5 one of the first substrate and the second substrate by cutting out the cured holding material from the first substrate and the second substrate.

FIG.2