

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Various embodiments disclosed herein provide techniques for messaging among agents executing on nodes a mesh network. In various embodiments, a method includes receiving, by a messaging application executing on a node of a mesh network, content for a message from an agent executing on the node; verifying, by the messaging application, that a policy permits delivery of the message; and transmitting, by the messaging application, the message to another messaging application executing on another node of the mesh network.

FIG. 7