

ABSTRACT

IMPROVED INJECTOR AND PALM BUTTON DEVICE

An injector for administering a drug product is described. The injector comprises a housing having an activation end and an injection end disposed opposite to and inline with the activation end, and a palm button device disposed at the activation end of the housing. The palm button device is for activating at least an injection cycle of the injector.

FIG. 8C