162162

G00002

Abstract

It is intended to prepare endodermal stem cells by differentiation from multipotential stem cells followed by isolation. This object can be achieved by separating various endodermal stem cells having been differentiated from multipotential stem cells with the use of, as indications, a specific cell surface marker, an organizer-specific marker and the expression manner of E-cadherin.