

ABSTRACT:

A reinforcing metal fitting configured to be installed at an end in a longitudinal direction of a C-shaped stud, the C-shaped stud having an opening in a first lateral surface, and the opening continuously extending along the longitudinal direction, the reinforcing metal fitting includes a bottom surface plate configured to be disposed along an end face of the C-shaped stud in the longitudinal direction, and a first lateral surface plate configured to cover part of the first lateral surface so as to extend across the opening of the C-shaped stud.

Fig. 2B