

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a video playing processing method. The method includes: receiving prompt information for playing a second video associated with a first video sent by an application server, the first video is a video being currently played, and the first video and the second video 5 include a same video content segment; and showing the prompt information for playing the second video associated with the first video. Disclosed are also a terminal device, a server, and a storage medium.

FIG. 1