

ABSTRACT

The method for producing a polishing composition according to the present invention includes mixing a dispersion containing silica and a solution containing a 5 silane coupling agent having a cationic group at a concentration of 0.03% by mass or more and less than 1% by mass to obtain a dispersion containing cationically modified silica.