

ABSTRACTClosure having a pin for a container

A method for producing a pin (1) for a container closure, characterized in that the pin (1) is first produced in an injection molding process and at least one seal (2) is produced separately therefrom and then fixed on the pin (1), or in that the pin (1) is first produced in an injection molding process in an injection mold and at least one seal (2) of a different material is produced in the same injection mold, likewise in an injection molding process.

Figure 1