

Abstract

A method of making chocolate is provided, comprising the steps of: (a) preparing a mouthpiece that can contain chocolate; (b) receiving the prepared chocolate into the mouthpiece and installing a temperature sensor and/or a heater into the mouthpiece; (c) connecting the mouthpiece of step (b) with a smokable aerosol product main body to complete the making procedure. The chocolate prepared by this method enables a dual consumption regime of both retail consumption and realistic smoking aerosol experience.

[FIG. 4]