MODULAR MOUNTING SYSTEM

ABSTRACT

An apparatus for mounting an electronic device in a vehicle for example, such that the electronic device is viewable by a driver and/or other occupants of the vehicle is disclosed. The mounting apparatus is capable of retaining and electrically connecting to different electronic devices having different electrical connector configurations using a standard mounting bracket by attaching an appropriate interface connector to the mounting apparatus in order to provide an appropriate external interface capability to the electronic device.

FIGURE 2