

ABSTRACT

5 A METHOD AND SYSTEM FOR VOICE INTERACTION

There is provided a voice interaction system and method to understand and respond to users where comprising a client and a server. The voice interaction system and method converts voice information into text information, and the server selects the 10 target language sub-model corresponding to the language category of the text information from one or more language sub-model to process the text information and obtain the text response information.

FIG 1

15