

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To separate a composite member consisting of a plurality of bonded members without destructing or damaging it, a fluid is jetted against the composite member from a nozzle to separate it into a plurality of members at a position different from a bonding position.

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

