

ABSTRACT

A data storage apparatus includes a nonvolatile memory apparatus and a controller. The controller is configured to set a first threshold time associated with a power loss protection operation when 5 the data storage apparatus enters a power loss protection mode and to back up debug data upon reaching the first threshold time after the external power loss.

FIG. 1