

ABSTRACT

An on-board unit includes a satellite information acquiring section which outputs first time data showing current time based on a satellite signal received from an artificial satellite; and a processing section which acquires second time data showing current time based on a radio signal which is different from the satellite signal, and detects a spoofing based on a difference of a time shown by the first time data and a time shown by the second time data.