A System And Method For Recommending Property

ABSTRACT

A system for recommending properties and a method of recommending properties using a system are provided, the system comprising a client module for registering clients; an agent module for registering agents; a property module for storing a property listing input by a posting agent, the property listing associated with the posting agent contact information and associated with a property information; a client display module for a client to access the system; an agent display module for an agent to select the property listing and for recommending the property listing to a client contact; a communication module for generating a recommendation message to the client contact for the recommended property listing; wherein the communication module functions to generate a link to the property listing in the recommendation message for a recipient of the recommendation message to access the property information of the property listing and wherein the client display module is configured to omit the posting agent's identity.

FIG. 18