

A Modesty SwimwearAbstract

The invention relates to a modesty swimwear, comprising a lower garment with a plurality of horizontal waist loops; an upper garment with a plurality of detachable securing means; and characterized by one end of each securing means is detached from the upper garment and passes through the corresponding horizontal waist loop from the lower garment prior to reattachment to the upper garment to prevent the upper garment from flipping inside-out during water activities and prevent midriff exposure of the user.

Fig. 1