

MANAGING TRANSACTION LOG DATA

ABSTRACT

5 An decoder module for normalizing log records generated by a computer system is provided. Based on a plurality of instruction sets stored in a database, the decoder module scans the log records and outputs the scanned results in a normalized format. A computer system for receiving a batch of log records from a plurality of remote computer systems, is able to process and normalize the log records using the 10 decoder module.

FIG. 2