

Abstract

The invention relates to a method for generating a digital model of a 3D object for subsequent printing by means of a 3D printer, the 3D object having an inner 5 volume (I), wherein a structure (S) is defined for a predetermined portion (A) of the inner volume (I).