METHOD AND DEVICE FOR TRANSMITTING DATA BETWEEN A COMMUNICATION NETWORK UNIT AND A PLURALITY OF COMMUNICATION DEVICES

Abstract

A method for transmitting data between a communication network unit and a plurality of communication devices is provided, comprising using a plurality of carrier signals grouped into at least one carrier signal group, determining a subset of communication devices of the plurality of communication devices, and using the at least one carrier signal group for data transmission between the communication network and the communication devices of the subset of communication devices.

Fig. 7