162162

ABSTRACT

In an electric potential treatment apparatus having an opposing electrode disposed above the head of the patient to be treated, the electric field intensifying member is placed roughly covering the area of the patient' s body including the effective spots and the routes connecting the effective spots.