Abstract

The present invention relates to a process for producing an oligomerization catalyst that includes a step of hydrothermal treatment. The present invention relates also to an oligomerization catalyst produced by the process and to the use thereof in the oligomerization of C2 to C12 olefins.

[No figure]