a heater regulating plate is disposed in the heating unit, and the heating unit divides an air passage into a first air passage which passes through the heating unit and an other air passage which does not pass through the heating unit and passes directly through the air supply unit.

5. The clothes dryer according to any one of Claim 1 to Claim 4, wherein the filter part is disposed so as to be detachable, and the regulating unit is configured by a plurality of areas.