

ABSTRACT

An instance segmentation model training method includes applying image dataset to an instance segmentation model to thereby detect an instance mask, calculating a loss based on the 5 detected instance mask and a ground truth (GT) instance mask corresponding to the image data, and updating the instance segmentation model based on the calculated loss, where the loss is calculated by applying a component-wise weight to a binary entropy loss calculation formula.

10

FIG. 2