

FASTENING MECHANISM

ABSTRACT

5 A fastening mechanism for connecting posts or other objects together is described. The mechanism consists of a housing, a first and second cam oppositely mounted in the housing, the first and second cams having opposed threads. A threaded stud having clockwise and counter clockwise portions connects the first and second cams allowing the cams to be drawn together in use.

10 Figure 1