

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to the field of food processors, and more particularly, to a slicing mechanism and the slicer using the slicing mechanism. The slicing mechanism comprises the lower cover and the cutter components. The cutter components are fixed to the rotating gear, which rotates in the lower cover. The rotating gear and the cutter components are directly fixed, improving transmission efficiency and stability so that the slicing process has higher uniformity and quality.

Figure 1