

ABSTRACT

Provided in the present application are a virtual character processing method and apparatus, an electronic device, a computer-readable storage medium and a computer program product. The method comprises: on a game interface for virtual characters of a plurality of camps in a virtual scene to play a game, displaying at least one standby virtual character ready to participate in the game, and displaying a virtual character demonstration control; on the basis of the virtual character demonstration control, receiving a demonstration instruction for a target virtual character among the at least one standby virtual character; and, in response to the demonstration instruction, demonstrating the interaction process of the target virtual character based on a target interaction attribute of the target virtual character.