

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a process for producing expanded molding products which, even though having a complicate configuration, have a uniform and high-density hard skin at the surface portion, suffer little shrinkage and also have a good appearance.

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

