

PRINTER WITH INK DRYING FACILITYABSTRACT

A printer includes a housing and at least one printhead within the housing. The housing includes an entrance aperture for entry of print media into the housing and an exit aperture for print media out of the housing. A print media loading mechanism within the housing is configured to feed print media in a feed direction through the printer. An air duct provides air onto the print media as it passes through the housing.

Figure 9