

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to safety warning device that emit narrow bandwidth of electromagnetic wave that is most sensitive to human retina in low or no illumination environment. The device safety warning device comprising of: an illumination film 200 to provide warning light; a main body compartment 300 that house the batteries and electronics and supply the necessary electricity form; a protective cap 100 to provide protection to the main housing.

