Abstract

The current invention provides compounds, methods and pharmaceutical formulations for use in treating or preventing osteoporosis by inhibiting the loss of bone. These compounds, methods and formulations can be used without the associated adverse effects of estrogen therapy, and thus are effective in the prevention or treatment of osteoporosis.

This Sheet Has Been Replaced