

G00002

-74-

IMAGE INFORMATION RETRIEVING DEVICE, IMAGE DATABASE DEVICE, IMAGE
INFORMATION STORING DEVICE AND RECORDING MEDIUM ON WHICH A PROGRAM PERFORMED BY THE IMAGE INFORMATION RETRIEVING DEVICE IS RECORDED

ABSTRACT

An image information retrieving device comprises: a primary service control information storing section; a response section which performs between a facsimile terminal, output of guidance information, input of an assignment signal from a user, and output of image information; a retrieval processing section which retrieves image information from an image information storing device; a secondary service control information storing section for storing temporarily secondary service control information showing a service control procedure which is stored in the image information storing device and following on from the service control procedure shown by the primary service control information; and a control section in the response section, which directs the retrieval processing section to read the secondary service control information and store this in the secondary service control information storing section at the time of input of the assignment signal, and performs control for outputting the guidance information in accordance with the stored secondary service control information.

FIGURE 1

162162