ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Through the present invention, game players can auction or transact game objects under their game accounts, such as roles, props, services, etc. The management of game account trading through the trading platform will also protect the safety of game object transactions. In addition, players can also take advantage of the functions of the present invention to manage their auctions and negotiate prices.