

【ABSTRACT】

The present invention relates to a system and method for generation of deception information based on attack surface information, particularly a system and method for generation of deception information based on attack surface information for protecting a ship by deceiving a cyber attacker attacking the ship, posing as an actual internal system of the ship, and identifying a sign of attack in an early stage to respond promptly to the sign of attack.