

Apparatus and method for simultaneous treatment of different fluctuating gas streams

Abstract

- 5 The present invention relates to a novel apparatus and to a method of simultaneous separation of multiple gas streams having different compositions by means of gas separation membranes, wherein the respective gas streams supplied to the apparatus and to the method may be subject to fluctuations in their respective volume flow rates and compositions.
- 10 Fig.1