

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

LOCK DEVICE OF VENDING MACHINE

A lock device of a vending machine is provided to enable favorably ensuring the burglerproof quality while making the work such as replenishment of commodities, etc. high in efficiency. A lock device of a vending machine that holds a state, in which an external door closes a front opening of a body cabinet, the lock device comprising a cylinder lever that moves lockingly and unlockingly, respectively, about an axis thereof according to the locking operation and the unlocking operation of a key, a connecting member being caused, in the case where the cylinder lever unlockingly moves, to abut against the same to be displaced to move a slider to an unlock position from a lock position while, in the case where the cylinder lever lockingly moves, permitting the locking movement at all times, and a restriction member that normally restricts a displacement magnitude of the connecting member to inhibit the slider from moving to the release position from the lock position while permitting displacement of the connecting member in the case where the cylinder lever unlockingly moves.

Fig. 1