G00002

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

A method of inspecting comprises a step of obtaining genuine defect information of a display base plate by using a first image signal by a first light heading from a display base plate to light detection means, and a second image signal by a second light with the first light passed through a polarizing filter having a polarizing angle different by 90° from the polarizing angle by the display base plate.

162162