Claims

1. Method according to claim 1, wherein removing the ophthalmic lens mold from the second molding tool is performed by pressing an ejector against a portion of the rear surface of the ophthalmic lens mold outside of the portion opposite to the lens forming portion on the front surface.