

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a composition of which viscosity does not cause the problem of use at high temperature in the mounting process of electronic device. The present invention relates to a composition for electronic device comprising (a) a (meth)acrylic compound and (c) a particle having a functional group having metal scavenging functionality.