

Abstract

Embodiments of the present application relate to the technical field of Internet, and provide a live streaming control method and apparatus, a live streaming device, and a storage medium. Voice information of a live streamer is obtained, and the voice information is analyzed and processed, so that according to the processing result, a virtual image in a live streaming screen is controlled to execute an action matching the voice information, so as to improve the precision of controlling the virtual image and enable the virtual image in the live streaming screen and the live streaming content of the live streamer to have a high matching degree.