

Electrical service switching device

Abstract

The invention describes an electrical service switching device, in particular a circuit-breaker or residual-current-operated circuit-breaker, which has an auxiliary switch for displaying the switch position which can be inserted into one of those openings through which supply leads can be led into the supply terminals.

Relevant figure: Sole figure

---

This Sheet Has Been Replaced

