

ABSTRACT

Examples of the present disclosure may provide a method and device for preventing recording during a conversation and belong to a communication field. The method may include: monitoring a mobile terminal device in real time, obtaining a current state of the mobile terminal device if an application for recording is installed on the mobile terminal device and determining that the application is an application illegally used for recording and preventing the application from recording if the current state of the mobile terminal device is a talk state. The device may include: a monitoring module, an obtaining module and a preventing module. With examples of the present disclosure, information security of the user may be ensured.