

Abstract

Formic ester is transesterified with a hydroxyl-containing compound in the 5 presence of a tertiary amine as transesterification catalyst to form a formic ester which differs from the formic ester used as reactant, and of a hydroxyl-containing compound which is different from the hydroxylcontaining compound used as reactant.