ABSTRACT

Implementations of the present application disclose an information display method and device. The information display method includes the following: receiving first information obtained after a scan box on a page for scanning scans a first graphic code; simultaneously displaying the page for scanning and an information display page and displaying the first information on the information display page; receiving second information obtained after the scan box scans a second graphic code; and adding the second information to the information display page. In the implementations of the present application, scanning efficiency can be improved.