

ABSTRACT

5 A computer-implemented gaming platform for hosting and operating a game of chance. The gaming platform comprises a game builder arranged to build a game of chance using data representing a game of chance, the data including game math, game client, and game backend; a game storage arranged to store the built game; and a game administration and operation engine operably connected with the game storage for operating the game of chance.

[Figure 1]