

Abstract

The invention relates to a moulding composition modified for impact resistance, in particular to impact-resistant PMMA with improved optical properties at elevated temperatures, to moulded items obtainable therefrom, and also to the use of the moulding composition and of the moulded items.