(54) Title: SYSTEM AND METHOD FOR PROJECTING CONTENT IN AN ENVIRONMENT

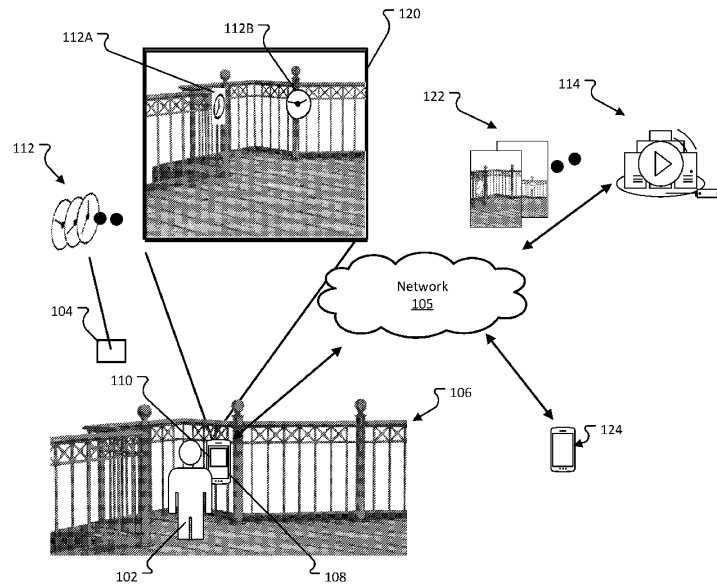

FIG.1

(57) Abstract: Systems and methods directed to placing user are described. More specifically, content is received and depth information corresponding to an external environment of the computing device is obtained. An indication to associate the content with a location based on the depth image is received from a user. Information for at least one plane associated with the depth information at the location is obtained; and a portion of the selected content is warped to match the at least one plane.
